

JUNE 2024

Student Money Advice Award Winners!

NASMA's Student Money Advice Awards is one of our most anticipated events of the NASMA calendar, and this year did not disappoint.

Kellie McAlonan,
NASMA Chair

Celebrating the success of our members, and recognising their hard work is really important to us in NASMA, and this is an opportunity for us to do just that. This year's awards were sponsored by Save the Student for the third year running, and we are thrilled to have the support of such a like-minded organisation.

Our judging panel were made up of Kellie McAlonan, NASMA Chair, Tom Allingham from Save the Student, David Marshall from JS Group, and Julie Walking, friend of NASMA and experienced leader in the HE sector who has worked within multiple institutions, students unions and is a former Chair of AMOSSHE.

The panel truly had their work cut out for them, with one of the strongest groups of nominees in recent years, making it a difficult task to shortlist, never mind picking an outright winner. The panel reviewed and deliberated fiercely over some amazing nominations and we are pleased to share the winners of NASMA's Student Money Advice Awards 2024, pictured below with Tom from Save the Student, and Kellie, NASMA Chair.

Andrew Perry Memorial Award: Fund Administrator of the Year
Jayne Green
University of Birmingham

Student Money Adviser of the Year
Paula Barker
Cardiff University

Student Money Advice Award Winners!

Team of the Year
Student Funding & Advice
Cardiff University

Innovative Project
Student Funding Unit
University of Dundee

Region of the Year
MIDLANDS

Highly Commended
Student Funding & Financial Support Team
University of Hertfordshire